

Mom's poem On Ralph's death.

APRIL 27, 1948

I'm like a ship without a sail
Tipped and turned by every gale.
I cannot think I only cry
I only wish I to could die.
I can't go on, the way's too rough
This hard old world is really tough.
My shield, my help, my partners gone
I have to face the world alone.